

The Wave Chronicle

It is evident within this time in history, the world needs a common list of rules for citizens. The Wave Chronicle believes that the rules need to be addressed as two levels of citizen rights for each and every individual. The belief is for rights for each individual will be classed as Native Citizens and Global Citizens.

Native Citizens are simply people who are living in the nation of their birthright and or immigration status.

Global citizens are Native Citizens who are traveling to nations outside of their birthright or immigration status.

The Rights listed below are core values, which can be expanded as the worlds enlightenment grows.

Native Citizens:

- Freedom to express yourself.
- Freedom to protest without fear of reprocution.
- Freedom to worship as you wish.
- Right to a prompt, fair trial by jury.
- Right to representation.
- Right to vote in all elections.
- Right to apply for any employment requiring native citizenship.
- Right to run for elected office.
- Freedom to pursue life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.
- Freedom to move freely within your native country
- Freedom against stop, search, and seizure, without cause and warrant.
- Right for food, clean water, and health care
- Right to remain private
- Right for marriage equality
- Right for education

Global Citizens:

- Right to return home
- Right to pass through territory
- Right to representation
- Right to food, water, shelter, and emergency health care.